Retiring Judge's View from Bench

Frank Blum Believes Capital Punishment Is a Deterrent

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Frank Blum has been a judge of the San Mateo County Superior Court for the past 18 years and has witnessed every imaginable type of case from his lofty bench.

One case that stands out in his mind is that of a man he sentenced to die for the murder of a police officer more than ten years ago — one of only two death sentences ever handed down and carried out in the county.

The case involved Alexander Robillard, who was executed in the San Quentin Prison gas chamber for the murder of Officer Eugene Doran.

Did he feel the death penalty was "cruel and unusual" punishment, as some have suggested?

"No," Blum said.

Cruel and unusual punishment is when a person is incarcerated for the rest of his life, the veteran judge said.

He also believes that the possibility of execution deters crime.

Before being appointed to the Superior Court by the late Republican Governor Goodwin "Goodie" Knight in 1958, Blum was city attorney of Daly City for eight years.

Thousands of trials later, Blum said he's tired of the "day in, day out routine" and looks forward to retirement.

Reflecting on his experiences on the bench, Blum said he has few regrets.

But there was one 23-year-old man who might have fared better in today's society, Blum recalled.

The unnamed youth was involved in a marijuana bust, but was "not the real culprit," according to Blum.

At the time, anyone connected with the sale of narcotics, including marijuana, "went to the joint," Blum said.

Closer ESAA Fund Monitoring Planned

By JANET PARKER

Closer scrutiny of a Jefferson Elementary School District federally funded program is expected this year as a result of a controversial and problem-plagued first year.

Official written approval of the second year of Elementary School Aid Act (ESAA) funding is expected "any day."

The Office of Education has tentatively approved a second year of funding for $700,000 despite the controversial six-month investigation by the U.S. Attorney's office of the district's revised 1974-75 ESAA application.

The Office of Education in San Francisco usually monitors ESAA programs twice a year and "sometimes more — especially where there have been problems," said Alfredo Villa, assistant regional commissioner for school systems.

The board of trustees also have indicated closer scrutiny to prevent wrong doing in this second year of funding.

"There is a desire by the board that something be done to prohibit something like this happening again so as not to jeopardize future applications for federal funding," said Trustee Bev Forrester.

"When you hire administrators at $25,000-$30,000 a year, you put a great deal of faith in their ability and have a certain trust in them to do the job," she said.

Supt. Herbert Hemington also indicated closer monitoring is expected but he said he doesn't mind.

"I want to be sure we are doing the things we are supposed to be doing," Hemington said.

It is the only ESAA project, said Asst. U.S. Atty. John O'Connor, that the San Francisco office is investigating.

"We have substantially completed the investigation," O'Connor said. "We expect shortly some indication will be made of what will happen." The investigation, he said, will conclude certainly by the end of the summer and possibly this month.

The federal investigation began after the board of trustees learned in January that a revised ESAA application had been sent to the Office of Civil Rights (OCR) without its approval.

Those close to the investigation say there was no record of the revised application in district files. It called for further busing of children in JESD to meet Office of Civil Rights desegregation requirements.

Although the U.S. Office does not indicate who its investigation is focused on, the board has sought questioning of three persons who no longer are with the district but held prominent posts at that time.

They are former Supt. Keith Breon, private consultant Theodore Parsons, and former Special Projects Director William Fowler. The revised application cover letter was signed by Breon.

Parsons "hasn't chosen to be available for the board," Hemington said, although Breon and Fowler did meet with the board in executive session.

The investigation findings could lead to grand jury indictments.

Trustees say they are powerless to seek any action against whoever falsified the application if the U.S. Attorney's office will not.

O'Connor said it is not necessary to establish a motive in order for the grand jury to return indictments. The grand jury will make indictments if there is enough evidence against any individuals.

NORTH COUNTY EDITION

THE POST

Vol. 29, No. 30 DELIVERED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING WEDNESDAY, JULY 23, 1975

DC Mayor Defends Junket to Conference

Two North County mayors attended recent meetings of the U.S. Conference of Mayors in Boston.

Mayors from 320 cities, including South San Francisco's Terry Mirri and Daly City's Victor Kyriakis, took part in the four-day event in the East.

Both local men have been criticized by some constituents for travelling 3,500 miles to attend a meeting the citizens claim has little or no beneficial application to San Mateo County cities.

Kyriakis says his critics are wrong.

He said the U.S. Conference of Mayors "is a major lobby group" that has much muscle in Washington, where federal money is distributed to cities.

As an example, Kyriakis said, Daly City has received "many thousands of federal dollars" through revenue sharing and similar programs.

During a five-year program (started in 1972) Daly City has been allocated $11,475,000.

At the conference, each mayor has a vote.

This is important when adoption of resolutions is considered, Kyriakis said.

Of the numerous resolutions considered, 100 were adopted.

These ranged from a list of "national priorities," that the mayors felt the federal government should undertake, to support for continuation of the federal revenue sharing programs.

Each passed by a thin margin of votes, Kyriakis said.

"This is why representation (at these meetings) is absolutely necessary and very important," Kyriakis said.

The mayor's trip was budgeted by the City Council for $650, but Kyriakis said he did not spend the full amount.

He was accompanied to the event by his wife. However, all additional charges for his wife were paid out-of-pocket, he said.

During the four-day event, Kyriakis attended day-long sessions at which government representatives spoke on topical subjects, such as pending legislation, dealing with problems of cities, he said.

Workshops for discussion of city-related problems also were held, he said.

"Without our presence at these meetings I don't think we would get our fair share of these federal monies," Kyriakis said.

Asked if he would attend future such meetings, Kyriakis replied:

"If the council wants me to go, I'll go."

Another Park Seen For D.C.

Daly City might have another neighborhood park soon — this one on the east side of the city in the San Bruno Mountain foothills.

Discussions are now underway between the city and the principal landowner in the Blossom Valley area, Arthur "Buzz" Haskins, concerning acquisition of the site.

Haskins is expected to turn over about one acre of land for the park, with another five acres to be purchased using available state and city funds.

Under the State Parks and Recreation Bond Act of 1974, some $150,000 has been allocated to Daly City for park lands acquisition.

Another $70,000 may be earmarked for the park project from Federal grants earlier allocated to the city, it was learned.

City Mgr. David Rowe said the new park will be a "passive park" and will not have any baseball diamonds.

It will feature, however, play grounds and landscaped areas "in one of the nicest settings in the North County," Rowe said.

There are ball diamonds nearby at the John F. Kennedy Elementary School, he said.

Mission Street Speed Reduction Surveyed

"Crossing Mission Street in Daly City is like trying to commit suicide."

This statement was made by an employe of the Community Service Center on Mission Street after a recent surve of 178 businesses along the state-owned thoroughfare by the Mission Merchants Association.

Of the 121 businesses responding to the traffic speed problem, 67 were in favor of lowering the speed to 25 miles per hour; 40 asked that the present 35 miles per hour limit be lowered; and, 14 were in favor of the 35 mile per hour speed limit if it is strictly enforced by police.

Councilman William Schumacher said he did not favor lowering the speed limit to 25 miles per hour "because I do not want to make Mission Street a speed trap."

A. E. "Zack" Zacharias, chairman of the association's traffic committee, told the city council Monday during an informal study session, that in the collective opinion of his committee the 25-mile-per-hour speed limit "goes hand-in-hand with our recommendation that diagonal parking be established (on Mission Street)."

Both requests already have been forwarded to the California Department of Transportation (CALTRANS) for review, because Mission Street is a state-maintained highway, according to City Manager David Rowe.

Councilman Paul Hupf said he is against diagonal parking along the street.

But Mayor Victory Kyriakis left the door open on the issue, noting the council may have to explore several possibilities for improving the street's traffic situation.

The merchants agree they are faced with a three-pronged problem along Mission Street: parking, traffic and pedestrian.

With the higher speed limits, pedestrians have insufficient time to cross the six lane route, Zacharias said.

If diagonal parking were allowed the number of parking spaces would be tripled, the report indicated.

This would provide more spaces for customers, it was explained.

VANDAL-PROOF SHELTER

New bus stop has been constructed at the "Top of the Hill," Mission Street, in Daly City at a cost of $2,514. Built by Keene Corporation of St. Louis, the shelter is reputed to be vandal proof. Because of shatterproof siding used in design, interior is visible to passing patrol cars. The shelter was a joint City-Mission Merchants Association effort.

Fifth Mountain Hearing At War Memorial Today

The Fifth public hearing before the San Mateo County Planning Commission concerning a proposed development on San Bruno Mountain will be held tonight starting at 7:30 p.m. at the War Memorial Building on Mission street, Daly City.

Opponents are expected to begin their presentations tonight.

New Program for Gifted Children

By JANET PARKER

Mentally gifted children will be the subject of a new Jefferson Elementary School District program, if funding can be obtained.

An advisory committee has been authorized by the board of trustees to seek state funding to support the Mentally Gifted Minor Program (MGM).

Dorothy Hicks, psychologist and guidance consultant, is submitting an application for $21,900 for the program which probably will be housed at Thomas Edison School.

"Some children," Mrs Hicks said, "if they don't get attention early in life, become lazy and end up as poor students."

The aim of this program, for first through sixth graders, is to identify the high potential student and offer an experience which will motivate interest in education.

The program application, Mrs. Hicks said, became a district goal at the suggestion of Supt. Herbert Hemington in May.

Mrs. Hicks said she has been interested in a program for the mentally gifted since she came to the district 10 years ago. The concept was offered in various advisory committees but not seriously evaluated until this year.

Most of the children who will be in the program have been referred from their classroom teachers, Mrs. Hicks said.

All have been approved for testing by their parents.

Dr. Jerry Houseman, assistant superintendent for education, said the state will fund up to $100 a child each year although $70 a child usually is granted.

Children must score in the top 2 per cent of their grade level in the MGM testing.

Mrs. Hicks said 170 children have qualified for the program. The original goal was 200 children.

Mentally gifted children, Mrs. Hicks said, run the gamut of human emotions and motivation. They might be highly motivated or not motivated at all.

The drop-out rate for these children, she said, is high since many become bored with school or can't get along with their peers.

"Exciting things" are the goal of the advisory committee which proposed the application, Mrs. Hicks said.

Specific ideas include:

- In depth studies in sciences, archeology and anthropology.
- Use of video-tape equipment.
- Extended study in mathematics.
- Career education.
- Field trips.
- Possibly some Saturday events.

The applicants are seeking $14,000 for a teacher's salary, $3,600 for audio-visual equipment, and $621 for books and supplies.

The advisory committee, she said, decided standard texts could be obtained from individual schools. Audio-visual equipment will provide new learning experiences.

THE REMAINS OF TWO TRUCKS

Two North County residents were injured late Sunday night in a head-on collision at the South San Francisco off-ramp to Bayshore Freeway. A CHP spokesman said the injured included 14-year-old Michael Holly, of 1145 Hillside Blvd., South San Francisco, and Bernard Brown, 46, of 25 Gladys Ave., Brisbane. Holly, a passenger in a vehicle driven by Thomas Marchlevski, of 3551 Sneath Lane, San Bruno, suffered a broken nose. Brown received fractures to both knees and possible internal injuries and is in good condition at Kaiser Hospital, according to the CHP.

"Today, we do things a lot differently," Blum explained.

There are times when he feels good about having helped people in the course of his work.

"A few years ago I let a couple of college guys off for breaking and entering. There was extenuating circumstances. They went on to college and graduated. Today, they are successful businessmen and they write me every so often," Blum said.

World War II found Blum in the Signal Corps (Air Force) as a private. He went on to Officer Candidate's School (OCS) and was assigned to a radar unit overseas after getting his commission.

An honorable discharge, marriage and three children later, Blum now says, "I want to slow down a little."

In Blum's opinion, the most dangerous bench to serve on is not a notorious murder trial.

It is the domestic relations court.

"There is much emotion in the domestic relations courts," he said.

Sometimes the shouting and accusations from both sides in these cases "is good therapy," because it allows a man and wife "to get it all out of their systems," Blum says.

Blum believes that removal of the "fault theory" in divorce cases is a good move.

He said division of community property is better without this theory which once automatically gave everything to an ex-wife.

Can the breakdown of law and order in the country be placed at the doorstep of modern courts? Blum was asked.

"First, there will always be courts. However, today they are being used for everything — school district disputes, development disputes, people fired by an employer they feel singled them out," Blum answered.

Things that are supposed to be decided by the people are now being decided in the courts and this is not good, Blum thinks.

"We (the courts) are just overburdened by 'propia personem,' (people presenting their own cases in court)" Blum said.

These cases often involve tax suits, development controversies and recall petitions against elected officials, he said.

"They (the people) elect people, then try to recall their representatives the first time a decision is made against them," Blum said.

"I wish I knew the answer," he said.

Such cases are choking the courtrooms, Blum said.

On the subject of child offenders, Blum believes they should be treated as children, not adults.

He feels most juvenile delinquency can be traced back to poor family guidance — parents not accepting the responsibility of raising their children.

"Hillcrest (Youth Guidance Center) is not the answer to a kid committing a crime," Blum said.

Home must be where a child receives discipline.

And the average age of a criminal is getting "younger and younger," the judge said.

There never has been a penal institution developed in California that meets the requirements of rehabilitating a criminal, Blum ventured.

"The question is: 'Should we lock people up and throw away the key?'" Blum asks.

His own answer: "Yes, in some cases!"

New Benefits

Thirteen weeks of extra benefit payments to eligible jobless workers still unemployed and available for work after exhausting their regular benefits are now available under a new state signed signed June 30, employment director Jim Lorenz reminded today.

Many uninsured workers who were receiving Special Unemployment Assistance (SUA) may not be aware of the new law, he said.

Coast Temple Approved Over Protest

The proposed Buddhist Temple Sambosa in Pacifica received Planning Commission approval Monday night, as the project received unexpected support from residents attending the meeting on other matters.

Commissioners unanimously granted a reclassification from single family residential to planned development use a 2.9 acre parcel on the south side of Gypsy Hill Road and approved a development plan for the proposed temple.

One opponent, Mrs. Alan Eisan, who lives nearby off Gypsy Hill Road, said she intends to appeal the decision to the City Council.

The project, for which the commissioners earlier approved a negative declaration, eliminating the need for an environmental impact report, will include the main temple with a dining hall, a library, a prayer temple and a 30-apace parking lot.

Burlingame attorney Dermot Fitzgerald, speaking on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Eisan, contended the reclassification amounted to spot zoning since the nearby area contains only single family homes.

Fitzgerald also questioned whether the commissioners properly considered the "general welfare, public health and safety," of the neighbors.

"It (reclassification) is arbitrary and discriminatory in relationship to the other people in that area," said Fitzgerald.

He also claimed construction of the temple would turn an otherwise private road into a regularly used public road, and that construction would create excessive water runoff.

Complaints that prime taxable lands would come off the tax rolls was aired by resident David Calhoun, who also questioned the potential traffic safety problem on already hazardous Sharp Park Road at the intersection of Gypsy Hill Road.

Resident Robert Berry expressed concern that there was no Environmental Impact Report required in what he called "a sensitive biological area."

"People should have a little more generousity for the worship of God," said Frank McCann of 1167 Alicante Drive, in rebuttle to the concern about the land coming off the tax rolls.

"I'm a Buddhist and a Korean," said Carol Cox of 1153 Manzaneta Drive. "It is a quiet religion, and I think we need the temple. We have only one temple in Carmel. It takes two hours to drive to worship in our religion."

And Ron Lewis, a Bishop of the Mormon Church, located a short distance east on Sharp Park Road, said, "We would wholeheartedly welcome this group."

Deputy City Atty. Bill Galstan said the reclassification would not be spot zoning, adding churches in residential areas are common. Galstan also said the Hillside Review Board has studied sufficiently the health and welfare aspects of the proposal.

Planner Jim Miller said the road is not private. He said it has an "non-exclusive" easement. "There are no limitations on who can use it," he said.

Commissioner Brad Pringle said the opposition comments were "the most shallow arguments I've heard in the six years I've been a commissioner."

San Jose attorney Peter Nakahara, representing applicant Han Sang Lee, said 50 members, mostly middle-age, were anticipated.

Service will be held two Sundays a month and a shuttle bus would be used to take worshipers to the site, he said.

Nakahara said visitors would be restricted to a conducted tour once or twice a year and a caretaker would live year-round at the temple.

Funds

Furthermore, the district could be charged and fined or be forced to return funds although almost all money has been spent.

"A case like this is different than other cases, like a bank robbery where information comes faster and more easily," he said.

A criminal statute prohibiting "any false statement or misrepresentation in any matter in the jurisdiction or agency of the U.S.," could be the basis for indictments of individuals. Conviction could lead to a maximum five years in jail and $10,000 fine.

OCR indicated great concern when the false application first was discovered.

However, their concern cooled off after a few months, those close to the investigation said.

Villa said the Office of Education is fully aware of last year's confusion in JESD. However, each year's application is separately reviewed and the panel which recommends approval or rejection of an application does not consideer previous year's circumstances.

However, Villa said part of the Office of Education responsibility is to observe if a district has lived up to its plan.

"If not then the report is out of line. We ask them to come back in line or funds will be cut off," Villa said.

Asked why the JESD was not forced to live up to the revised plan, he said the OCR evidently was sastisfied enough student movement had occurred to keep JESD eligible for funds.

"The idea is to find out how to rectify the problem," Villa said. "We don't aim to take the funds back."

Hemington said the district did carry through with the plans approved originally by the board.

Trustee Forrester said there is concern by the public how this could happen and why the board did not prevent it from happening.

"The board can take care of policy but they certainly are not at the district watchdogging. That's why we hire professionals. The board approved a plan and it was incumbent upon the administration to see that plan was carried out."

Not Guilty Plea

Computer programmer Robert Eugene Post, 28, charged with the kidnap murder of 21-year-old Ruth Wilhelmson pleaded not guilty Friday before Judge Charles Becker, in South San Francisco Municipal Court.

Judge Becker set Friday, July 30 at 2 p.m. for preliminary hearing.

San Francisco Attorney William Greenspan, representing Post, asked Judge Becker to issue a "gag rule" against the District Attorney's office, police, and other individuals connected with the case.

He also asked Judge Becker to allow his client to appear in court in "civilian" garb rather than the orange prison jumper he was attired in Friday.

Judge Becker denied the "gag rule" request, stating that without there being some statement proving that the news items might prejudice the case he did not see the need for such restrictions on the free press.

Becker informed Greenspan that the reason Post was dressed in prison garb was for security purposes, and said it is up to the Sheriff's Office to determine whether the accused can appear in court in civilian clothes.

Greenspan asked that bail be set in the case, and was told to file a formal request later.

Attorney Greenspan asked that any further interviews with his client not be made without Greenspan being present. Judge Becker agreed to this request.

Greenspan said he will argue against a request by the San Mateo County District Attorney's office that a blood sample be taken from Post. Greenspan did not explain the basis for his argument against the request.

Judge Becker postponed arguments on that plea until this week, because of a full court calendar. The hearing was set for July 22 at 10 a.m.

Coordinator Approved

The bilingual-bicultural programs in the Jefferson Elementary School District will be under direction of a coordinator this fall.

The new staff position, on a salary schedule from $17,368 to $20,680, was approved by the Board of Trustees last week.

The coordinator will direct the 47 bilingual program employes, said Dr. Jerry Houseman, assistant superintendent for educational services.

"Up until now, all these poeople have been going in their own direction," Houseman said.

The four bilingual programs are an ESSA funded program, a BABEL program, a Title VII program, and an English as a Second Language program.

"It was my desire to bring all these under this department," said Houseman, who assumed his present position this month after the retirement of Dr. Vinton Stratton.

The coordinator in turn, Houseman said, will be under direct supervision of his office.

Insurance Rules May Force Alarm Systems

Already saddled with a no-option $50,000 deductible insurance rate because of recent arson, Jefferson Union High School District trustees last week were told of plans — also mandated in order to maintain insurance — to install burglar alarm systems.

Dr. Robert S. Watt, assistant superintendent of business, said preliminary studies based on a look at one school indicate it will cost about $5,000 per school to install a burglar alarm system.

Watt said, "The frightening thing is the on-going service cost." He estimated the cost to maintain, service and monitor the system would be about $5,000 a year per school.

"If you don't do it, the rate will be more," Watt said. "Or, we may not get anyone to insure us."

Watt said once the staff has obtained more specifics on the matter the issue again will be brought before the trustees.

Insurance Company of North America, in a letter dated June 25, set a $50,000 deductible rate on real business and personal property.

"Our intent is not to simply cancel the contracts but rather to work with the districts to protect their interests and provide us with a properly protected insurable account," stated the letter. "However without immediate action (to increase the rate) we will have no alternative (than to cancel)," the letter concluded.

The letter also required the district to install the burglar alarm system, including a central station reporting and ultrasonic type of detection, on all buildings.

In addition, the district must install a full heat and smoke detection system on all buildings.

"If either of the above cannot be accomplished we would be compelled to withdraw from these accounts," stated the insurance company letter. "A further mandatory requirement is that the protective system be installed within 45 days of discussion with the school officials."

The letter also stated that during the interim the district must provide a 24-hour watchman service at all locations. Watt told the trustees this requirement was initiated as of last Friday with the hiring of the California State Patrol.

In other business, the trustees:

• Heard a report on plans for starting a peer group counseling program next year at Westmoor High School in which students would attend a semester-long training course before serving as counselors for their peer group.

• Were told by Dr. Robert Watt, assistant superintendent of business, that the district will have a "difficult year" unless it receives additional monies from the state. The trustees were told that wasn't likely. Watt said the budget, which has about 92 per cent in fixed charges, mostly salaries, would be brought to the trustees for final approval on Aug. 5.

• Held over to the next meeting awarding a contract for the purchase of band uniforms for Pacifica's Terra Nova and Oceana High schools in order to allow all potential bidders an adequate opportunity to submit uniform samples.

Route 380 Issue To Pacifica Ballot

Three Pacifica City Council members have voted to put the issue of Route 380 on the Nov. 4 ballot.

Councilwoman Janice Fulford said Monday night there was no urgency, since the Department of Transportation has indicated nothing could be done on the San Bruno to Pacifica freeway project until at least 1982.

Instead of asking for a special election that could cost up to $7,000 (if that were the only ballot measure) or $3,500 (if the measure got on the North Coast Water District board member ballot, she said, the issue ought to wait until the March, 1976, City Council election.

"Then the only cost will be the small printing costs," Mrs. Fulford said.

She charged the push for the special election was to protect "two possible incumbent candidates" — Grace McCarthy and Aubrey Lumley — from having to face the Freeway 380 issue in 1975 election campaigns.

Mayor Stan Farber, Lumley and Mrs. McCarthy voted to place the measure on the November ballot. All three have been strong proponents of the extension.

In other business, the council:

● Approved a resolution authorizing allocation of revenue-sharing funds for the construction of a "fish ladder" on San Pedro Creek at Capistrano Avenue.

● Okayed $50,000 in revenue-sharing funds for the development of playfield areas at Pedro Valley, Sanchez and San Andreas schools in conjunction with the Laguna Salada School District, which is responsible for administering the three projects.

● Adopted on a 3-2 vote a third alternative recommendation of the staff to form an assessment district for unimproved properties on the south side of Linda Mar Boulevard to include Pillar of Fire Church improvements and the road in front of the new Linda Mar fire station.

Mayor Farber and Lumley voted against the motion. They said they preferred complete realignment of the entire street on both the north and south sides, which was the staff's first alternative.

● Upheld a planning commission acceptance of a "negative declaration" for a Sambosa Buddhist Temple project on Gypsy Hill Road, meaning no environmental impact report is required.

County Accepts US Grant

A $2.77 million grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to initiate the county's Housing and Community Development Program was officially accepted last week by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

James Price, area director for HUD, was scheduled to make a personal appearance to formally present the grant. However, he was stranded in Fresno by plane trouble and unable to attend the meeting.

Almost one-half of the initial year's grant, $1.24 million, will go toward continuation of the neighborhood development program in East Palo Alto for drainage and street work, housing rehabilitation, economic development, relocation and land acquisition.

A total of $593,219 will go for projects in the 10 cities participating in the program. Funds will be allocated for housing rehabilitation, development of community centers, drainage and street improvements, beautification and recreation, planning, management and administration.

The balance will go for county projects. They include land acquisition for farm labor housing in the Pescadero area, low-interest loans for housing rehabilitation in the North Fair Oaks area adjacent to Redwood City and on the south coastside, housing code enforcement programs and a site option for senior citizen housing in East Palo Alto.

Ambulance Decision Postponed

A lack of communication resulted July 15 in postponement by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors of action on recommendations for improvement of ambulance service in the county.

George Asvos, Redwood City fire marshal and chairman of the Ambulance Service Study Committee, informed the board that the committee had not been contacted by George F. Robertson, assistant administration director of the County Department of Health and Welfare, in development of the latter's reply and comments on the committee's recommendations submitted to the board last month.

Asvos charged that there still is the attitude on the part of the county of having its "head stuck in the sand" as far as improvement of ambulance service is concerned.

Taxpayer Group Demands Action

By RICK SULLIVAN

Some 250 North San Mateo County taxpayers unleased mounting frustration with their inability to curtail skyrocketing reassessments before County Supervisor Bill Royer Wednesday night.

The group, calling itself the North San Mateo County Taxpayers Association, gathered at the Marines Hall at the U.S. Naval Facility in San Bruno to protest recent assessments and to alert the supervisors that they would wage a county battle to force reassessment reforms.

The group called on other county taxpayers' associations and on Royer to aid it in petitioning legislators in Sacramento to "get off their keesters and do something about property tax reform," and "to put a stop to unequal reassessment" of property.

Although Royer attempted to explain to the audience that the county collects and spends only 20 per cent of the property tax dollar, members of the audience demanded that the Board of Supervisors cut its tax rate. A reduction would negate the increase in taxes homeowners are being forced to pay because of the current reassessment, the group said.

"Because the county does the assessing, whenever there's a reassessment people run to the county and demand that it cut back on the budget and the tax rate," Royer said. "The county only spends a small portion of your property tax dollar. The major portion is spent by cities, school districts and special districts."

However, in a gesture of cooperation, Royer told the indignant taxpayers, most of whom were elderly persons on fixed incomes, the board has urged the assessor to place commercial, industrial and residential property reappraisals on the same cycle.

"We (the board) have added three appraisers to the assessor's office so we can get all commercial and industrial property reassessed by the end of next year. So then all property in the county will have been reassessed over the past three years.

"The assessor then hopes to reassess all property on a two-year cycle to eliminate big increases in assessments all at once," Royer said.

Many members of the audience chided the assessor for what some called his "50-50 game," the reassessment of half the property in the county one year, the other half the next year.

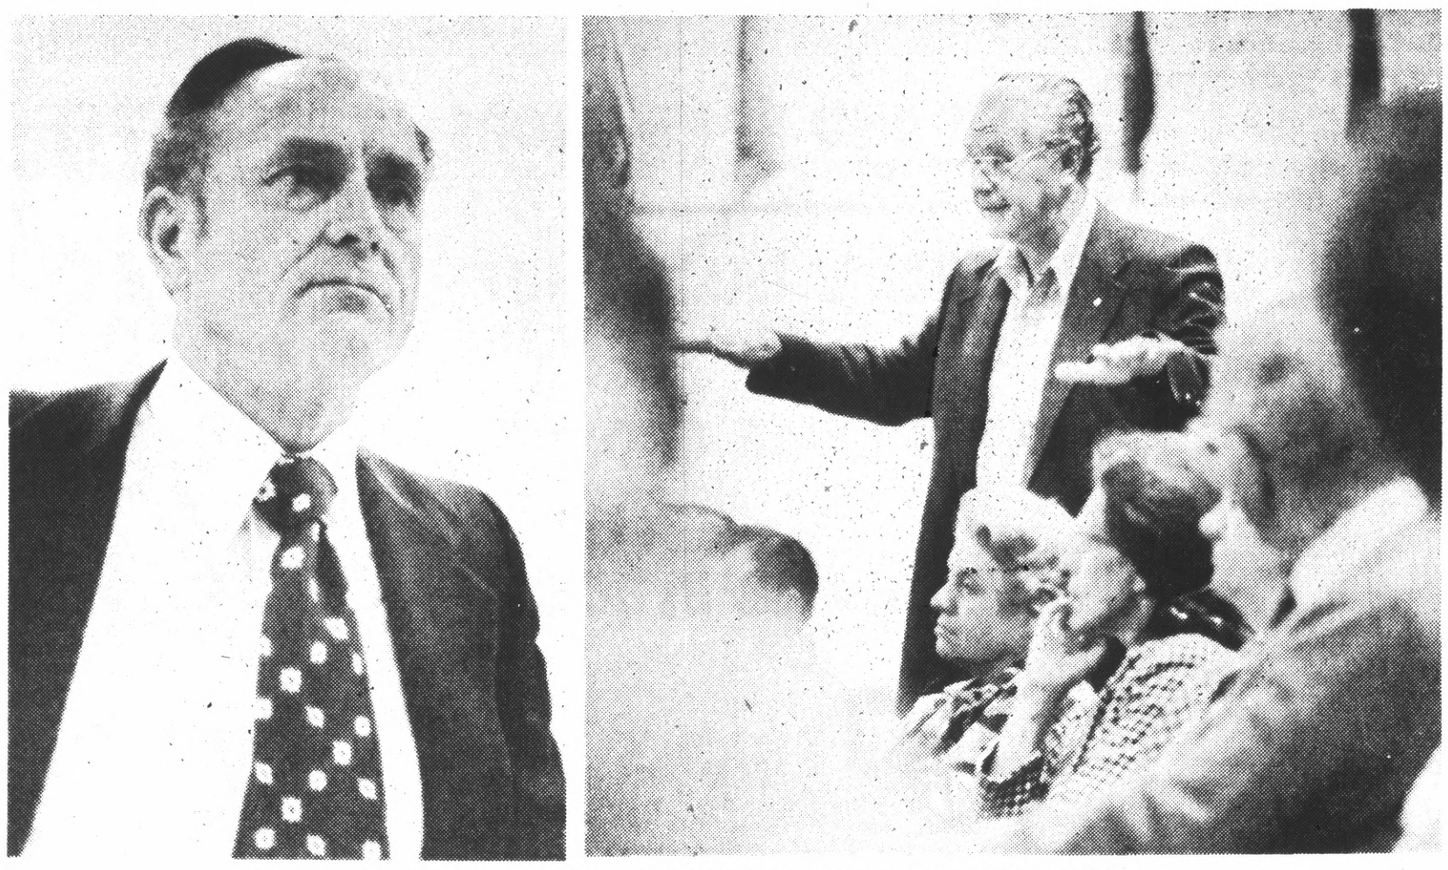
And Carl Stearman of San Bruno, said, "The county has difficulty assessing all property at the same time. Then why not reassess half one year and half the other, then make the reassessments, effective on a specific date?"

"I don't know the answer to that," Royer replied. "But I will look into it."

"I have asked the county and the state attorney general this same question," San Bruno City Councilman Dick Griffith told the audience, "and no one seems to have an answer for it."

It was Griffith who last week called an informal taxpayers' meeting in San Bruno which drew 100 persons, who, in turn, formed the North San Mateo County Taxpayers Association.

As the discussion progressed, it shifted to government spending.



TAXPAYERS VENT FRUSTRATION OVER REASSESSMENTS

County Supervisor Bill Royer, left, listened as San Brunan Carl Stearman spoke at Wednesday night's meeting of the North San Mateo County Taxpayers Association. Speakers demanded action on property tax reform.

Association Chairman Les Kelting zeroed in on what he called the county government's "continued manner of wasting taxpayers dollars," and "failure to tighten its belt."

"For years and years the county has been spending millions of our dollars on consultant fees to pay for studies that are filed and just end up gathering dust; it's a waste that's got to be stopped," said Kelting.

"Times are tough," Kelting continued. "People are out of work, industry is cutting back and laying off workers. But do we see government doing the same thing? No way. People on fixed incomes are ending up in a position where they are being forced to decide whether to sell their houses in order to eat."

John Bartolini of San Bruno at one point during the meeting stood up and declared, "I am getting sick and tired of supporting with my tax dollars people who don't work and all those people driving around in big Cadillacs. I think it's time we cut all these social programs that are forcing our taxes to go up."

"We are tightening our belts," Kelting said, "and we should force government to do the same. We will continue to get ripped off by the government until we solidly organize."

The audience cheered as Kelting called on all taxpayers to participate in the association committees to contact other taxpayer associations in the county and throughout the state to organize joint meetings and present a solid front in Sacramento to force "something be done about property taxes."

"I don't want property tax reform," said Kelting, "I want property tax reduction."

Several in the audience volunteered to serve on what Kelting called the association "liaison committee." Members of that committee were asked to contact a Santa Cruz taxpayers' association circulating a petition to place a property tax initiative on the ballot.

According to Kelting, the initiative calls for a freeze on all assessments at the 1974 level, sets the tax rate for retired persons based on their annual income, removes beautification and improvements to property from reassessment and organizes state property owners, among other things.

"If we can get the strength in our organization and good, smart committee members then we can go before the Board of Supervisors and I'm sure they will help us in our fight," Kelting said.

As Royer stood up to leave the meeting, he turned to the audience and remarked," If you have any questions, please don't hesitate to call any one of the supervisors. They will all work with you."

JESD to Install Anti-Crime Devices

Burglary and arson prevention devices soon will be installed at all 22 Jefferson Elementary School District campuses.

Just how soon depends on the County Office of Education's approval or disapproval of the JESD need for the devices on an "emergency" basis.

The Board of Trustees Wednesday instructed Business Mgr. John Lynch to seek emergency status from the county so the district can waive bidding procedures and more quickly obtain the suppression devices.

Devices to discourage or apprehend arsonists were mandated by the school district's insurance carrier following the $250,000 Woodrow Wilson School fire in June.

Lynch told the trustees he was informed by the county office that the emergency status probably would be approved.

Superintendent Herbert Hemington said the trustees are aiming for a dual burglar alarm and smoke detection system, although the kind of device depends on the total cost, which has not been determined.

Kenneth H. Geiser, manager of the loss control department for Insurance Company of North America, said of the three available local alarm companies, Bay Alarm would suit JESD needs best. It offers a computerized alarm system, he said.

If an alarm goes off at any school, the computer analyzes where the alarm is located, dials the nearest police department, and a police officer then takes over.

The process takes "a matter of a few seconds," Geiser said.

Lynch was authorized by the board to seek immediate emergency status from the county.

Without emergency status, the administration indicated, devices might not be installed before school opens.

Furthermore, in the interim, the school district must pay for a security patrol at all the district schools as requested by the insurance carrier.

In other business, the trustees:

- Approved an application for the Mentally Gifted Minor program. The proposal must be received in Sacramento by Aug. 1.
- Approved the position of a bilingual coordinator for the bilingual cross-cultural cultural education program and the E.S.L. program.
- Set a 7:30 p.m., July 30, budget meeting.

Coast Cost Impact Is Sought

Redwood City Assemblyman Dixon Arnett said Friday that he is garnering support for legislation aimed at determining "the actual costs" of implementing the California Coastal Zone Conservation Plan.

He said the costs have been estimated at $10 billion.

Assembly Concurrent Resolution 99, introduced by Arnett, directs the legislative analyst to undertake a thorough review of the preliminary version of the plan in order to determine it's financial impact on the state's economy.

"Without some idea of costs, we certainly cannot accept the proposal, especially if the fiscal impact is as stiff as some are estimating," Arnett declared.

The plan was developed by the agency created by California voters in 1972 with passage of Proposition 20, the Coastal Zone initiative. A statewide and six regional commissions have prepared a comprehensive land-use plan for the state's coastal areas.

Arnett's resolution gives the legislative analyst until Sept. 15 to present his findings to the legislature.

Oyster Point Proposals Asked

South San Francisco councilmen Wednesday night authorized the city staff to solicit proposals from qualified firms to prepare plans and specifications for the proposed Oyster Point Marina.

The instruction did not pass without some controversy, however.

Councilman Frank Mammini, who voted against the action, later in the meeting succeeded in having passed a companion motion which stated, in effect, the city wouldn't actually hire consultants until it was certain how much money would be available for the project.

Mayor Richard Battaglia and Councilman Leo Padreddii voted against Mammini's motion. They contended it was a moot point.

Padreddii, in particular, became embroiled in a verbal exchange with Mammini over whether the action to solicit proposals would put the city in a financially compromising position.

Mammini said the state may promise to lend money for the marina project but if consultants were hired to prepare plans based on a promised loan, consultant fees would have to be paid regardless of whether that promise ever was fulfilled.

Director of Parks and Recreation Dick Milkovich, however, said it was unlikely to happen. He said the state first approves a project. In this case it's in the $6 million range. Once approved, that amount of money is set aside and is forthcoming, Milkovich said.

He said the next step would be to prepare a master plan of the project. Fees for this would be paid in a lump sum based on a percentage, he said. Then, according to Milkovich, the project would proceed on a phase basis. Each phase, approved first by the city, also would have to be approved by the state before it was begun.

Milkovich said the state Department of Navigation and Ocean Development (DENOD), which funds such projects, is expected to take action in mid-September. He said DENOD suggested the city begin interviewing firms in preparation of awarding a contract. Money, according to Milkovich, will be available in October.

The parks and recreation director said $6 million is available and $1.2 million earmarked for use in the 1975-76 fiscal year, with another $2 million scheduled for 1976-77.

City Manager Ed Alario emphasized that the marina is a separate project which the city will not have to help finance. However, Alario added, the city will need money to install a fishing pier, a small park or other amenities in the immediate marina area.

Big Water Line Project Concerns SSF Officials

He said construction of the line will affect public property street improvements and private property rear yards.

South San Francisco is gearing up to protect city and resident rights in anticipation of a new 66-inch water transmission line going through the city.

Councilmen Wednesday night authorized the staff to mail notices to the owners of those parcels of the San Francisco Water Department on which construction line is to occur, requesting any response about their concerns. The information will be forwarded to the water department.

The San Francisco Water Department has a right-of-way, part of it being an easement and part in fees, through South San Francisco, according to Frank Addiego, director of public services.

"It is advisable at this time to make the San Francisco Water Department aware of the city's concerns so that the department may adequately plan to accommodate those concerns in carrying out the construction," Dddiego said.

City Engineer Bob Yee said the project probably is two years away and will be proceeded by an Environmental Impact Report, which would allow the city to air its concerns. He said City Atty. John Noonan is checking deeds and other legal aspects of the proposed project.

First Aid Class Set

A Red Cross multi-media standard first aid course will be offered at 8:30 a.m. July 23, at the Red Cross office, 1449 Bellevue Ave., Burlingame.

The eight-hour class is free and instructed by a Red Cross volunteer. Participants will have on-the-floor practice and should bring a lunch. There will be a fee for workbooks, a drug abuse pamphlet and bandaging materials.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Red Cross office.

Consolidation Announced

The National Foundation of the March of Dimes has a new Bay Area Chapter which includes the consolidated San Mateo, San Francisco, Marin, Napa, Sonoma and Solano county chapters.

The announcement was made by Joseph S. Nee, president of the national foundation, and by Harry H. Simanek, acting volunteer chairman of the new Bay Area chapter.

Help Wanted

Because of the urgent need to find volunteers for the upcoming Day Camp for the Handicapped at Coyote Point, the Volunteer Bureau-Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County is focusing its concentration this week solely on the camp.

The camp will run for two sessions. The first is slated Aug. 4 through 15, and the last is set for Aug. 18 through 29. Volunteers may sign up for either or both sessions.

Teen-agers and adults are needed to help the multi-handicapped youngsters in a variety of outdoor activities including nature hikes, swimming, cookouts, singing and arts and crafts. Volunteers must sign up to work an entire camp day or several days per week.

Although the campers are handicapped, they come to the program to enjoy camping experiences like other youngsters blessed with good health. Enrollment in the camp has doubled this year, however, volunteer sign-ups have decreased.

Persons who enjoy helping others and working on a one-to-one relationship with campers and counselors are being invited to donate their time and talent to the non-profit venture.

Additional information about the camp and other volunteer opportunities may be obtained from the Volunteer Bureau at 119 Primrose Road, Burlingame. It is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A branch office is located at Ampex Bldg. 2, 940 Douglas Road, Redwood City. Office hours are 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Friday.

High school students in the San Mateo Union High School District may register for summer School-Community Service volunteer positions at camps for the handicapped, hospitals, local government and non-profit agencies. Information about these volunteer jobs are available from School-Community service coordinators as well as the Volunteer Bureau.

As American As Apple Pie

What is as American as apple pie, motherhood, or hamburgers?? What living legend makes the fictional Horatio Alger look pale in comparison??

Who looks like the epitome of an aristocratic southern gentleman, but who is actually the son of a poor share cropper? Who, at the age of 65 years, with little more to his name than a Social Security card and a secret recipe began a whole new career??

For the answer to these questions, and the many more you are dying to ask, get hold of a copy of a small book with a long title, "Life As I Have Known It Has Been Finger lickin' good," by (you guessed it!) Col. Harland Sanders of Kentucky Fried Chicken fame (and fortune).

Some quiet evening get yourself a bucket of chicken, the colonel's book, and settle down for a "finger lickin' "evening of corn and con. The corn is served first. And if you are one of these people who find attempts to re-create "inimitable mountain grammar" on the printed page do funny things to your stomach, keep the bucket close to your chair.

The first word of Chapter I is a stirring "Dadgummit!" It gets better, but not much. So if the daggone participles ending in an apostrophe instead of the accustomed "g" annoy, concentrate on the chicken for a while.

When you get beyond these minor flaws you will reach the con. Colonel Sanders covers his entire 84 years in 144 pages. So what you get are selected vignettes, tantalizing in what they reveal and frustrating in what they do not reveal.

You learn that until he saw the light a few years back the colonel was a notoriously talented cusser. But all you get is an occasional dadgummit.

You learn that the colonel believes strongly in helping others, but it isn't always clear whether the colonel is following what his mother taught him in childhood: getting revenge for past slights, or fattening his bank account when he is helping others.

Maybe it is all or some of the above and maybe it isn't fair to expect the colonel to unravel his motives — but it would be fascinating if someone, someday does it for him.

The colonel tells us he has a strong sense of justice and it was this feeling that caused him to work hard to correct the injustices done in the local Justice of the Peace Courts and that prompted him to get on the phone to the acting governor to make sure that a local thief wouldn't "beat the rap."

Where it was when he conned 150 or so citizens of Charleston, Ind., into buying insurance for their kids by filling out and signing the applications for them, the colonel doesn't say.

In the old days, it all would have been a dandy Warner Bros. picture, starring James Cagney as the brash, scrappy but loveable colonel, fighting his way up the ladder of success. As a Norman Lear sitcom, it wouldn't make it.

So, no matter how you feel about fried chicken, fast-food franchises, or for that matter about the colonel himself, it is nice to know that even this late in the day the American dream still can come true, every now and then, without anyone going to jail or being disbarred.

A TASTE OF CAMP LIFE

Avis Kresin of the Volunteer Bureau-Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County and San Mateo County chief of recreation Glen Smith show young Tom Gnam of Menlo Park what he can expect in the way of outdoor activities next month when the Coyote Point summer camp for the handicapped opens. Volunteers are urgently needed to assist with the two camp sessions scheduled Aug. 4 through 15 and Aug. 18 through 29. The camp project was begun 20 years ago by Mrs. Phillip Sonenstein of Burlingame, and, since its inception, more than 2,000 youngsters and 2,000 volunteers have participated. Foster Jones is director of the camp. Details about volunteering jobs are available through the Volunteer Bureau office in Burlingame.

Summer Outing for Trainees

The Hillsborough home of Mrs. Harold Koerber was the setting last week for the annual summer outing for the trainees or Workshop Production Services.

The party was organized by Mrs. Robert Epsen and the Auxiliary to the Society for Crippled Children and Adults of San Mateo County.

The WPS operates as a sheltered workshop with the aim of returning handicapped persons to the community to carry on his or her own job and his or her own lifestyle.

In March, 1974, WPS moved to its present location, 858 Stanton Road, Burlingame, after the building was purchased with the assistance of the Crippled Children's Auxiliary. The following June, the workshop was awarded a grant of $25,000 by the State Department of Rehabilitation, and with the money, an innovative program of evaluation of entering trainees was undertaken by Jack Mulcahy, director, and Carol Salter, director of rehabilitation services.

Within the workshop, each disabled person learns new trades while contributing to his own support. About 150 persons a year are employed, and last year 50 were returned to the community. The program involved is two-fold: First, contracts must be found to maintain the employee during his stay at the workshop, and second, on-the-job training and rehabilitation therapy must be undertaken at all levels until the trainee can average an 85 per cent workload of that of a normal person.

It falls to Michael Lester, production head at WPS, to locate the local firms who can benefit from the precision-quality hand labor and competitive pricing that makes the workship such a desirable partner to the electronic and manufacturing community. Some of the firms who have contracts with WPS are Varian Associates, IBM, Hiram Walker, Merrill's Packaging, Label-Matic, Lenkurt, Spice Islands and Pullmaster.

When each trainee reaches his optimum level of accomplishment, a job must be found which can be fulfilled successfully and with dignity. WPS undertakes this responsibility, and Miss Salter conducts the search. Pre-evaluation testing of vocational aptitude is very important in this effort.

Another facet of the workshop is its cooperation with the San Mateo High School District. The workshop receives students who must work fulltime. These students are employed at the workshop, and then put in 30 hours a week in an education program conducted by a visiting teacher who comes to the workshop. In addition, young people who participate in the Special Education Program of the district receive two or three hours a day work experience in the workshop as part of their high school vocational training.

Among the auxiliary members who worked on the party are Mesdames John G. Wood, Edwin Schwinger, Robert Cookson, John Chapman, F. Scott Smyth, John McCoy, Edwin E. Adams, Paul Kennedy, James Crafts, Robert Hevener, Dainel Wallis, Thomas Bisho and William P. Wooldridge.

CONTEMPORARY SOUNDS

The Moondogs, a local group of musicians including George Baldwin (left) James Ribero and Scott Baumsterger, provided entertainment at the trainee party. Later in the day Jack Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Jack Foster, played the guitar. His mother is a sustaining member of the Crippled Children's Auxiliary who gave the party; his grandmother, Mrs. T. Jack Foster Sr., is also affiliated with the group.

At Home in Daly City

At home in Daly City are Mr. and Mrs. David Boyle who were married recently at St. James' Episcopal Church in San Francisco.

The bride is the former Linda Matheny, daughter of Evelyn Matheny of Daly City and Bud Matheny of Half Moon Bay. Gerry Matheny of Half Moon Bay is her stepmother. The bridegroom is the son of Peter and Florence Boyle of Daly City.

The Rev. Max Christensen officiated at the ceremony which was followed by a reception at the church.

As the bride and her father approached the altar, she was wearing a long, tiered lace gown with a long veil caught by a pearl petal headpiece.

JoAnn Schlotthauer, the honor attendant, wore a pink gown with a white lace bodice. Carole Matheny, the flower girl, was also frocked in pink and white.

Dennis Matheny was best man and Tim Boyle, brother of the bridegroom, ushered.

Linda attended Jefferson High School in Daly City; her husband studied at Victorville High School in Southern California.

The couple honeymooned in British Columbia.

Tree Committee Members Wanted

Are you interested in trees and their welfare?

The San Mateo Planning department is looking for a small group of citizens with interest and expertise in wildlife to work on three county ordinances dealing with trees.

They include the ordinance, a pending general tree ordinance, and a draft heritage tree ordinance.

"The State forest rules are changing and some inadequacies have shown up in our ordinance," Peter Twight, natural resources coordinator, said.

Other issues the citizens committee would spend their time on include the ecological impact of cutting trees in the county, private property rights, and how a tree gets defined as a heritage tree, Twight said.

The board of supervisors endorsed the idea of forming a citizens committee at the suggestion of Supervisor John Ward who asked for broad-based representation including foresters, conservationists, and property owners.

People interested in spending some time on this task should make application to the planning department, County Government Center, Redwood City.

Deadline is Aug. 10.

Friends Outside Sends Out Clothing SOS

S.O.S. from the local chapter of Friends Outside, the group which works with the families of men and women who are in prison:

Mrs. Rudy Enberg, the executive director, reports that a mother and her children were the victims of a fire which destroyed their home and possessions.

There is an immediate need for household items to help re-establish the family, sheets, and linens of all types, small appliances, kitchenwares and clothing.

Call the Friends Outside office (661-6900) for information about clothing sizes or to arrange a donation of any type.

As the summer wears on, the clothes closet runs low on all sorts of items, but Mrs. Enberg noted a special need for men's clothing. Sixteen newly released men have applied to the group for clothing and shoes and the supplies are very low. Special needs are socks, shirts, and underwear.

AUGUST 9 is the date of the reunion for the Balboa High School Spring of '63 graduating class.

The reunion committee has selected the Sons of Italy Hall, San Francisco, for the gathering. Cocktails will be served on a no-host basis at 6:30 p.m. Dinner, entertainment and dancing to the music of a popular local group will follow. Tickets are $10 a person of $16 a couple.

Lorianne Heath

Additional information about tickets or concerning the reunion may be obtained from Mrs. Kathy Laabs Tellez (707-252-2786); Mrs. Vicki Deshaies Cohn (707-255-4491); Patty Baumgartner (334-0827) or Garo Mirigian, 4691 Wildwood Park Court, Fremont.

SERRA DISTRICT Boy Scouts will hold a "Fun Weekend" at Camp Royaneh on Aug. 22-24, according to Morty Risch, executive director of the district.

The outing is planned as a family affair as well as a business gathering for adult scouters.

Living accommodations will be in the open-sided camp buildings and food will be served cafeteria style in the camp dining hall. Cots and Mattresses will be provided and some of the buildings do have electric lights but families are asked to bring bedding, flashlights, swimming suits and personal items.

Cost for the weekend will be $5 for adults, $2.50 for children. Reservations, accompanied by a check, should be sent to the Serra District headquarters. For details call 392-6990.

WHILE THE Daly City Garden Club is holding its annual flower show Sept. 20-21 in the mall of the Serramonte Shopping Center, the Friends of the Daly City Library will be cooperating with the Garden Club Show committee by presenting a display of gardening books from the selections available in the local library branches.

Mrs. Alice Barichievich will be the organizational chairman for the library's display and Mrs. Olga Canada will provide a floral display for the Friends of the Library table.

DO YOU HAVE some old ceramic containers you aren't using now? How about some costume jewelery that seems a little dated? Is there some cluttering up your jewel box?

The Mary's Help Hospital Guild's workshop committee is looking for many ordinary items they can convert into gifts to be sold at the Christmas Boutique!

Members of the committee are meeting during the summer and donations of containers, jewelry, wooden hangers, pieces of driftwood and religious objects are being sought. If you would like to donate craft materials of any of the forementioned items please leave your donations with the volunteer at the information desk in the lobby of the hospital or with Mrs. Nancy McCoy, the hospital's director of volunteer services.

ONLY TWO MORE Sundays remain for girls to enter the Queen Isabel 111 contest, sponsored by the Holy Angels Latin Club.

Nemer Gonzalez, chairman of the contest, will be in the parish home after the 10 a.m. Mass the next two Sundays to accept entry blanks. All contestants must be registered by Aug. 3 and the queen will be crowned at the Queen Isabel 111 Ball, Sept. 6.

Block Grant For Cities Announced

Congressman Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo, confirmed a $2,772,000 Community Development Block Program grant by the Department of Housing and Urban Development to the County of San Mateo.

The CDBG activity in San Mateo County includes the County unincorporated area and Belmont, Brisbane, Burlingame, Foster City, Half Moon Bay, Menlo Park, Millbrae, Portola Valley, San Bruno, San Carlos, South San Francisco and Woodside.

According to Ryan, the projects in Burlingame and Woodside are not planned for the first year of the program.

"It is intended," said Congressman Ryan, "that two-thirds of the grant will be used for county-wide projects in the unincorporated areas for housing activities and community facilities. The balance remaining will be used to continue the East Palo Alto renewal project and city projects in the 10 cooperating cities."

Southgate Theater Co. Rehearses August Play

The Southgate Theater Co., a young, new North County community theater group, will complete its 1975 summer season with three performances of Tennessee Williams' classic play of the struggle of an American family during the Great Depression, "The Glass Menagerie."

This 1930's, semi-realistic drama will provide a change of pace for the Southgate Theater Company, which performed earlier this summer Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream" set in the period of the European Renaissance.

According to general director of the company, Gordon Farrell, also responsible for directing "Glass," the most unique aspect of the upcoming production of this American favorite will be the extensive use of rear-screen slide projections being incorporated into the play.

In the original version written by Tennessee Williams, says Farrell, projections of pictures and written legends are called for, utilizing a single slide screen. Farrell believes Williams incorporated the slide projections into his play as a way of enhancing the dream-like, bittersweet mood of the drama, presented to the audience through the memory of young Tom Wingfield.

Taking his cue from Williams, but not willing to be limited by Williams' lack of experience with slides, Farrell will be using three projection screens located around the set, and will employ a great many "mood-setting" pictures, dating back to the fifties and primarily concerned with people's relationships.

Seen in the play will be Pacifica residents Lynda West and Donna Wells, Daly City resident Jefferson Wilbur, and Bob Fox of San Carlos.

This summer's performances mark the first season of the Southgate Theater Company in Pacifica.

Daly City residents saw the company in performances of "The Lion in Winter" and "The Importance of Being Earnest" last summer at the United Methodist Church.

The Southgate Theater Company performs this summer at the Sharp Park Library in Pacifica, located at the corner of Hilton and Palmetto Ways.

"The Glass Menagerie" will be performed at 8:30 p.m., Aug. 2, and 2 and 5 p.m., Aug. 3.

Admission is $1 for children and $2 for adults.

For further information, call 359-3871.

Parking Doorside Phil Lehr's Feature

Phil Lehr's Steakery is a convenient pre-theater dinner stop for folks attending the Civic Light Opera production of "How To Succeed In Business" at the nearby Curran Theater. There is ample parking doorside in the big Taylor-Ellis lot, and the elegance of the Wellington Room and the gourmet steak dinners are an exciting beginning to a memorable evening on the town . . . Nevada Tours has been enjoying a brisk Lake Tahoe "package" business. If you're planning a trip to the South Shore area, it's our suggestion that you contact this San Mateo office for a "surprise refund" reservation . . . One of the best dinner buys in Stateline, Nev., awaits your visit to the South Tahoe Nugget. You can enjoy an "All you can eat" dinner for just $1.95. This buffet spread is a real winner! . . . The new look has arrived at Barney's! A newly remodeled upstairs dining area is attracting crowds on a 24-hour basis. This cozy and exciting casino, long one of South Lake Tahoe's favorite clubs, lacks naught for action "the Nevada way."

Tanforan's Nine Great Restaurants

September 3 is the date scheduled for the drawing for $300 worth of school clothes at Tanforan Park's Garden Restaurants. This promotion offers the lucky winner a variety of school clothes from the various fine shops located in the Tanforan Park Shopping Center, San Bruno. Another promotion, which was recently introduced at the Garden Restaurant complex, is the $1.49 Dinners Special featured on Wednesday night only from 4 p.m. to 9 p.m. Each of the nine Garden Restaurants will be featuring a special $1.49 dinner every Wednesday night for an indefinite time . . . Passersby do a fast double take when they spot those huge, nine feet tall Bird of Paradise plants lined up two-deep on the sidewalk outside Lehr's Greenhouse Garden Restaurant on Sutter Street in San Francisco. Step inside for lunch, dinner or Sunday brunch, and you'll find more of these magnificent botanical oddities inside the restaurant. Murray Lehr says they're on sale for just $135 — and the usual price is $300 . . . Dining, dancing, cocktails and parties best describes Nick's Rockaway Beach restaurant, which offers illuminated viewing of the Pacific Ocean for a backdrop after nightfall. An evening spent here will be one to long remember. Dance tunes by Jimmy Payer, Wednesday through Saturday. Serving breakfast, lunch and dinner seven days a week.

Fish, pork, teriyaki steak and even crepes are featured entrees on this week's $3.95 "early evening" menu at the Shirt Tail in Palo Alto. These dinner specials are available only from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., Monday through Saturday. An excellent choice is Steak Teriyaki, which is marinated in a tasty Polynesian sauce . . . Nice to see smiling Vince Licata and his sons, Tony and Louis, back on the restaurant scene after a well deserved vacation. As usual Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant is doing capacity luncheon and dinner business. The menu offers an impressive selection of seafood dishes, grouped under general and classified headings. In addition to appetizers, cocktails, soups, salads, sandwiches and tasteful desserts, you can order such Italian dishes as Veal Scaloppini and Spaghetti Caruso . . . The newly enlarged dance floor at the Bayhill Lounge, in San Bruno, is packed nightly with couples dancing to the great sounds of Apocalypse, a trio of talented local musicians who play everything from "Rock to Bach."

Scotty Campbell's For "Happiest Hour"

Scotty Campbell's is the only Peninsula restaurant boasting a late-evening "Happiest Hour" — and that's 365 nights a year. In "Bright Lights" estimation, every hour spent in this award-winning Redwood City restaurant is a happy hour, as the place radiates a pleasant atmosphere. 'Tis a family affair, with Mary Lou Fox at the "head table" . . . Did you know that handsome Enrico Romano, who calls the kitchen signals at the Rockaway Beach Italian and pizza stop which bears his name, is also one of the area's outstanding racing drivers? He pilots his speedy Italian cars to one trophy after another . . . Chez Bon, the bustling 24-hours-a-day food operation at Ramada Inn, Burlingame, is an ideal spot for a family dining out. Complete dinners begin at $2.95 (includes soup or salad) . . . For a half century, Venteo in San Francisco has been serving superior cuisine. Today, their menu boasts one of the City's best selections. Serving both luncheon and dinner; credit cards are honored. Doorside parking attendant.

Public Relations For the Swami

By JOHN HORGAN
Times Staff Writer

Has the Peninsula's summer got you down already?

Are the merry moppets in your neighborhood driving you bananas as they ride their hellish Big Wheels through your precious foyer?

Are all those re-runs of Marcus Welby forcing you to renew your Blue Cross policy early?

Take heart. Help may be on the way.

His Divine Grace A. C. Bhaktivedanta Swami Prabhupada is heading for the Bay Area with prepackaged tranquility and calm.

A. C. is the spiritual master of the International Society for Krishna Consciousness, Inc.

He bears a message of truth and light shared by millions of the faithful in the Far East.

For many in the West, the Krishna movement is an incomprehensible one.

The religion is associated with hordes of shaven-headed zealots who disdain material things.

Devotees of the sect have been banned from soliciting new members at the San Francisco International Airport in the past and their strident activities have been severely restricted elsewhere as well.

But the Krishna people are not to be daunted. They have determined to fight fire with fire.

To improve their image and to promote a festival July 19 and 20 in San Francisco, the faith has hired that most occidental of all institutions, a public relations outfit.

Trencher-Orsborn Public Relations of San Francisco has already begun to spread the word about this month's event and the expected appearance of the swami.

The onslaught of publicity has already been marked by our receptionist in San Mateo.

She suffered a runny nose the other day. A photographer's sinus cavities began clogging, too.

These incidents are related because Trencher-Orsborn has mailed packets of the swami's incense to interested media types.

The incense promptly fouled the consciousness of more than one employe.

Rasped the congested, "Do that again and I'll have you publicly flayed."

"Arghhhh," agreed the receptionist as she brandished a box of Kleenex.

There wasn't a "Hare Krishna" from either one of them as they daubed at their watery eyes.

The faith doesn't affect everyone this way, however.

Trencher-Orsborn predicts that up to 50,000 people will attend this month's festival in Golden Gate Park. The event has been held yearly since 1967.

A highlight of the two-day fete will be the spectacle of a parade of three massive two-ton Jagganath Carts. Each will tower 45 feet high. The 78-year-old swami will lead the procession.

The parade will recreate a journey of the Lord Jagganath, supreme ruler of the universe, 5,000 years ago.

Basically, the followers of the faith believe that by surrendering themselves to God, Krishna or Lord Jagganath, they can attain a kind of spiritual jubilation and fulfillment.

This month's festival will include a free meal, an Indian fair, a few speeches and, inevitably, free incense. Bring your Allerest.

A's Have Vendor Problems, Too

This is a left-handed apology to Giant officialdom, as they say when they're looking for synonyms for administration. We refer to our recent piece berating the Giants — or somebody out there at Candlestick — for not putting enough vendors on duty one day to handle a small but hungry crowd.

We call this a left-handed apology because we do not refute anything we said. It was all true. It is just that we should have been thoughtful enough to include the A's in any column we were doing on operational inefficiency. In fact, what the A's did to us as a consumer less than a week after the Candlestick incident was even more ridiculous and certainly more serious.

We arrived 10 minutes before the game for one of the few days games played in Oakland, knowing that there would be fewer than 10,000 in attendance. But when we advanced on the ticket lines, we were aghast. Was it October? Had we been transported into the future, into a World Series date? Lines were strung out all over the stadium.

Well, it was none of that. It's just that good old Charley Finley had but two windows open for ticket sales plus one for the entire bleacher section. Later on, a third ticket seller joined the harrassed duo, but not in time to cut down the waiting time of nearly half an hour, nor the assuage the people who missed almost two innings of the game.

As it turned out, there were just a few more than 7,000 people attending that game, and, literally, a probable majority of them still were waiting in those two (later three) feeble little ticket lines when the game began. Some of the waiting patrons were guessing that there actually were more people outside the walls of the stadium than there were seated in the park when the first pitch was thrown.

A man with relatives on the East Coast observed the relatively good natured attitude of the fans over yet another rip-off, and said, "You know, if this was like at Shea Stadium, or certainly old Ebbetts Field, by now those ticket booths would have been turned over, the special cops would have had their stars pinned on their rumps, and these people in line here would have been in the stadium throwing any loose object they could lay their hands on at anybody who looked like he had anything to do with the A's front office. That's what's wrong with us out here. We're too nice and civilized. We let so-called big leaguers make suckers out of us."

WE'VE FINALLY come to the conclusion that we're just not going to worry about the All-Star game anymore. There are so many incongruities, so many things that happen that aren't fair, that it just isn't worth the frustration.

Again, there were many examples of players who should have made it but didn't, the most prominent example, we suppose, being when Walter Alston chose his own Mike Marshall, who has been injured and having, for him, a sub-par year, over the Cards' lefty reliever Al Hrabosky, who is having the kind of a year that even Mike Marshall might be dreaming about. Over the period of the past several weeks we've mentioned other snubs and potential snubs.

A couple of late-breaking snubs which happened after our last column both involved Alvin Dark. It would be interesting to know how Alvin could rationalize picking Rollie Fingers, who is not having one of his best years, over another of Dark's own relievers, Paul Linblad, who is having a great year — one very close to the kind Hrabosky's having. Alvin thought Linblad was only good enough to pitch batting practice in the All-Star game, although he would have condescended to allow Linblad on the official roster had Jim Palmer's ailing elbow not allowed him to make an appearance.

Speaking of Palmer, who finally was on the roster but not able to pitch because of elbow trouble, it also was interesting that Dark told the press that even had Palmer been in top condition, Vida Blue still would probably have started because of the kind of year he's having.

Actually, both Palmer and Catfish Hunter were having better seasons than Blue going into the All Star game, and they were having them with teams not supporting them as powerfully as Oakland supports its pitchers.

Palmer was 13-6, Hunter 12-8 and Blue 12-7, which are, admittedly, close records which could allow hair-splitting. But as we noted, Palmer and Hunter aren't pitching for teams that rack up wins the way the A's do. Perhaps a better guide would be to examine what each pitcher was doing in terms of every nine innings pitched. Following is that breakdown:

Blue: hits, 7.7; runs, 3.10; strikeouts, 6.6; walks, 3.0.

Palmer: hits, 7.1; runs, 2.26; strikeouts, 7.7; walks, 2.3.

Hunter: hits, 6.6; runs, 2.82; strikeouts, 4.1; walks, 2.5.

We guess Alston and Dark just about sum up how much of a player's All-Star career depends on favoritism, or, forget it if your manager doesn't manage the All-Stars.

Another tough one to take, which had nothing to do with favoritism but with Bowie Kuhn's system of voting, was Chris Speier's omission from the team because Cincinnati shortstop Dave Conception happens to play for a team that is winning in a runaway and in a city whose fans are noted for their fanaticism in getting their players into the All-Star game.

Even if they were ordinary fans, who voted only once or twice a season instead of 10 or 12 times, it stands to reason that since most ballots are distributed and filled out in baseball stadiums, that a team drawing a lot of fans is going to be the team that sends players to the games. The way the Giants are drawing this year, they couldn't send Joe DiMaggio to the game as a starter if Joe had made a pact with the devil and comeback in his prime.

We have no quarrel with Alston picking Philadelphia's Larry Bowa as a sub over Speier. Bowa, to begin with, has been a vastly overlooked player, and in fact probably deserved going last year more than Speier did. Until he was injured earlier in the season, Bowa was having a fantastic year. Always a marvelous fielder and base runner, he was hitting more than .340 and was among baseball's leaders in runs score. Even coming back out of condition after the injury, he was holding a .321 BA.

But between Speier and Conception, there virtually was no difference, yet Conception drew enough votes to make Speier appear a non-entity. Defensively, both are outstanding. Conception probably has more range than Speier, but their arms are about equal, and going into the game Speier had fewer errors than any regular shortstop in the league. Speier is also known as a team leader. Conception is not. Offensively, Speier was batting .272 with four homers, 43 RBIs, 35 rubs scored. For Conception it was .265, three, 37 and 43. Does that sound like several of hundreds of thousands votes difference?

OTHER ALL-STAR NOTES: It was ironic that the pitcher with the highest ERA on either team (John Matlack, 3.54) got one of the Most Valuable Player awards. . . . An amazing coincidence was that, going into the game, participating players from both leagues had driven in an identical aggregate total of runs — 906. . . . And we're glad that Dark showed more sense in not pitching the injured Nolan Ryan than his own manager, Dick Williams, has. Ryan's record has suffered terribly in his last half dozen or so starts because he has been pitching on a bad leg. We hope that that indulgence doesn't destroy more than just part of a season for Ryan. . . .

The Daniel Webster School boys kickball team, nicknamed the "Wildcats," capped an exciting week of activities by soundly defeating the competitive M.P. Brown team 20-13.

Paul Sangervisa lead the assault by crashing three home runs. Young Vince Maurino and his older brother Tony each chipped in round - trippers.

Besides the big blasts, Mark Svenson, Phil Rodriquez, Ferrera LeBlanc, Keith Fretty, and Jack DePriest each collected key run scoring hits. The defensive standouts for the "Wildcats" were Tony Fretty and Eric Crenshaw. While Jason McClay, Kjell Svenson and Forrest Bess efforts contributed to the victory.

In other action, duffer Ferrera LeBlanc captured the first annual Daniel Webster "Whiffleball" Golf Open by narrowly edging aggressive Nino Hampton.

Also, Jack DePriest and Forrest Bess finished third and fourth respectively.

Girls' highlights throughout the week included Lisa Agrimonti's skill and daring in dodgeball and Sonja Collier's ability to beat the boys in carroms.

Any boy or girl between fourth and sixth grade interested in participating in the kickball program, should contact the recreation leader.

The hours are 12:30-5 p.m. Monday thru Friday and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on Saturday.

Thirty young people went to Searsville Lake from Serramonte and enjoyed a day of sun, sand and splashing. Trips are every Tuesday, and sign-ups are quickly filled.

The menu of the Thursday weekly barbeque ranged from scores of hot dogs to hamburgers, to chicken. Participants must bring own food and cook it at 1 p.m. on Thursday.

Soccer and spud seems to be the big field games at Northridge Park. Kathy Moye and Angie Herrman are two of the girls who help to make these game co-ed.

An obstacle course was made in the tot lot. Leading the way in the races for time are June Salangsang, Mari Pender and Tony Young.

In hop scotch, Stacy Fitzgerald still is undefeated.

For games of skill and brain power, Diego Salangsang is undefeated in carroms. Contenders are Billy Moyle, Tony Young and Raymond Moyle.

Free Bowling for Daly City Children

One week of free bowling is being offered by the Daly City Recreation Department through the cooperation of Swanson's Westlake Bowl.

The program is open to local children between 8 and 12 years old and offers the opportunity to learn to bowl at no cost.

The program will be divided into two sessions which will run Aug. 25-29. Session one will run from 10 to 11:30 a.m. and session two will run from 1-2:30 p.m. Each session will consist of five lessons and practice sessions.

Each session will be limited to 100 children and transportation will not be provided. Therefore, registration preference will be given to children with parental transportation to and from the bowl.

Children are expected to attend all lessons in their session and may participate in only one of the two sessions.

The purpose of this program is to teach children to bowl properly and interest them in this activity in which they can participate throughout their entire lives.

An important plus in his program is that an instructor will be provided for every eight children.

Only the first 100 children in each program will be able to participate but others may be placed on a waiting list and contacted if openings arise.

Registration forms are available from local playgrounds and the deadline for turning them in is Aug. 15.

For further information, call the Daly City Recreation Department, 992-5356.

San Bruno won the Peninsula Joe DiMaggio League round robin baseball title Sunday with a doubleheader sweep over South San Francisco.

Larry Timko's RBI double in the bottom of the seventh inning decided the opener 1-0. Dan Addiego led off with a walk, went to second on Mike Mooney's sacrifice and scored on Timko's drive down the left field line.

Rich Andersen went the first six innings for San Bruno. Dan Danielson pitched the seventh for the win.

Steve Epidendio tossed a 1-0 five-hitter in the nightcap. Al Ayers led off the third with a single — the only hit off SSF's Herman Segelke. Ayers eventually scored on Dan Voreyer's two-out bases-loaded walk.

Pasta Dish

Good morning, good cooks.

Webster's New World Dictionary gives this definition for ravioli . . . small casings of dough, often square, containing highly seasoned chopped meat and, sometimes, spinach, cooked and served usually in a savory sauce.

This recipe is for a pasta that uses just the filling of ravioli, rolling it in flour and poaching it in the same manner that ravioli is cooked.

PASTA

- 1 clove garlic, chopped
- 1 Tablespoon oil
- 1 cup chopped cooked spinach (or 1 package frozen chopped spinach
- ¼ cup minced parsley
- ¼ teaspoon each, thyme, rosemary, marjoram, basil
- 2 eggs, beaten separately
- 1 container Ricotta cheese (1 lb.)
- two-thirds cup grated parmesan cheese
- 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- ½ cup flour (for shaping the pasta)

Drain the one cup spinach well. Pat as dry as possible with paper towels.

Saute the one clove chopped garlic in one tablespoon oil until tender. Add the drained spinach, fourth cup minced parsley and one-fourth teaspoon each, thyme, rosemary, marjoram and basil, cook over low heat for 10 minutes.

Beat the two egg yolks in a large bowl, stir in the one pound Ricotta cheese, two-thirds cup Parmesan cheese, and one cup bread crumbs and then the spinach mixture. And last fold in the two stiffly beaten egg whites. Chill for 2 hours. Then form the chilled dough into small balls, about the size of a large walnut. Roll in flour. Place the balls in a large flat pan, cover with plastic wrap and chill thoroughly.

Poach the pasta, (half at a time) in boiling salted water for about 10 minutes. Lift out with slotted spoon and place on large serving platter. Spoon meat sauce over top and sprinkle with grated cheese. Serves 6.

MEAT SAUCE

- 1 pound ground beef
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1 stalk celery, chopped
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 can tomato sauce, 8 ounces
- 1 can tomato paste, 6 ounces
- 1 cup water
- ½ cup dry white wine
- ¼ teaspoon each basil and oregano
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 8-oz. can sliced mushrooms and liquid

Brown the one pound beef, add the half cup chopped onion, chopped celery and one clove minced garlic. Season with one teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Cook until vegetables are tender. Add the cans of tomato sauce and paste, one cup water, one-half cup wine, fourth teaspoon each basil and oregano and bay leaf, and eight ounces mushrooms and liquid. Blend well and simmer for 1½ hours.

Ceiling Placed on College District Staff

Senior administrators of the San Mateo Community College District have placed ceilings on staffing for the district's three schools.

The action, taken because of budgetary strictures and a lack of enrollment growth, is said to be the first of its kind in the district's history.

According to Chancellor Glenn Smith, who made the announcement Wednesday evening during a meeting of the district board of trustees, the staffs at both the College of San Mateo and Canada College in Redwood City will not be allowed to be increased above 1974-75 limits.

The staff at Skyline College in San Bruno will be allowed to be increased as enrollments dictate.

These limits will be placed on day division faculties and staffs only.

Smith said the action did not represent a hiring freeze because staff workers will be replaced if and when vacancies appear.

Smith added that the entire three-campus district is in a state of "overhaul" as its officials attempt to implement some of the recommendations contained in a recently received district master plan for the future.

It was urged strongly in that document, that the autonomous nature of the three schools be weakened enough to permit centralization of services, administration and other key aspects of the total district operation.

In another matter, Smith said he would like to see negotiations with the faculty concluded.

But the snags have developed. The two sides have had problems reaching agreement on a 1975-76 pay package, although bargaining was scheduled to be resumed in some form today in San Mateo.

Representatives of the faculty say the district has offered a 1.1 per cent cost-of-living salary hike. District officials counter that the offer is really 4.5 per cent. The teachers have asked for a 12.5 per cent increase.

Last week, the San Mateo District Colleges Teachers Association voted unanimously to deplore "the lack of meaningful negotiations" evidenced so far in the yearly process.

Smith has replied that money to fund a big salary increase is not available this year. He said there is about $784,000 available to fund 4.5 per cent raises for all district personnel, including instructors.

In a June 25 letter to all teachers, Smith wrote: "I do not believe the board deserves to be regarded by any employe or group of employes as an adversary body . . . You need only look at the present salaries (averaging among the highest in the state) and the present generous range of employe benefits to understand why I can make that kind of statement."

Faculty spokesmen say all this is unacceptable.

Speaking Wednesday, Smith said he has no desire to "get involved in a brawl with the faculty."

In other matters, the board:

• Approved a 30.8 million publication budget. It is expected the district's tax rate will drop by about 1.5 cents in the new fiscal year. Adoption of the final budget is to be on Aug. 6.

• Passed a resolution which urges district officials to acquire a 14-acre portion of a former Nike missile site in Pacifica, near the Skyline campus. The area would be used, in part, for fire science and police training for San Mateo County law enforcement personnel.

Pulls Pair From Pounding Surf

Man Rescues Fishermen

A South San Francisco man is being credited with "quite possibly" saving the lives of two young fishermen who fell into turbulent waters during high tide off Mussel Rock in Daly City Thursday afternoon.

According to the fire department, Don Richey rescued Carl Exstron, 17, of San Bruno, and another unidentified youth who had been stranded in the surf for half an hour.

Exstron was taken by ambulance to Mary's Help Hospital where he was treated for exposure and released.

A fire department official said Exstron and his companion had been fishing off Mussel Rock near Thornton Beach when at about 4 p.m. they decided to walk back to shore.

Rough surf pounding up on the rock caused the two youths to lose their footing and they both fell into the water, according to the fire department official.

Richey, the official said, heard the calls for help and succeeded in pulling the two youths out of the water and onto the beach.

Firemen covered the youths with blankets, and Exstron was treated for shock.

Mrs. Costa saved 3.49 shopping at Lucky

Mrs. Marion Costa was asked to compare Lucky's prices with another supermarket in her community. She shopped at Lucky and with a list of her own choosing purchased the same or comparable at the other store. Lucky did not tell her what to buy . . . only to try and duplicate what she had bought at Lucky. The amounts spent were added up and Mrs. Costa found her food costs were lower at Lucky.

U.S. Funds Approved For Beach Acquisition

A $253,980 federal grant that would pay 49 per cent of the acquisition costs of a five-mile stretch of San Mateo County beach in Half Moon Bay has been approved.

This is the second phase of a county Mid-Coast Beaches Project that officials hope eventually will have all the ocean front from Kelly Avenue six miles south to Seal Rock in a county beach and greenbelt strip.

The latest federal grant, from the Interior Department's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, would help pay for 68.6 acres of beach, bluffs and open space up to 400 feet inland from the surf line.

The 1973 concept plan calls for picnic grounds; hiking, horse and nature study trails; surf fishing and bathing in the latest area to be acquired.

This stretch is from Valdez Avenue on the north, just a few blocks south of the present Francis State Beach, to Miramontes Point Road, just west of the Canada Cove Mobile Home Park.

This area also includes the present Half Moon Bay dump site at the end of Metzger Street and west of Arleta Park, which the county owns and plans to close later this year. The city of Half Moon Bay is seeking another dump site.

The county concept plans call for another 190 acres of beach, bluff and interior open space to be acquired to just south of Seal Rock, a mile south of Purissima Creek south of Half Moon Bay.

Though there has been no specific facilities planning yet, the concept plan notes that there are two separate characters to this area from Kelly Avenue to Seal Rock.

Down to Miramontes Point the beaches are broad and sandy, easily reached by roads directly to them or over sand dunes or low bluffs.

But from there south to Tunitas Creek and including the Eel and Seal Rock areas, the beaches are small, some underwater at high tide and virtually inaccessible over the steep, high bluffs.

The thought now is that the open beach areas would be those most highly developed for recreational uses, with parking on some of the inland "nodes," or larger areas protruding from the linear greenbelt strip, and all the amenities the active recreationist would need.

But the bluff areas would become environmental preserves, kept pretty much as is, for hikers and nature study.

Tarantula Lurks

(Times Photo)

WANTA PET MY TARANTULA?
Rudy Christians of Brisbane holds "Henrietta," his pet Central American tarantula, similar to the one he rents out to a San Francisco jewelry shop as a protective device.

By GEORGE GOLDING

Photographer Mike Spinelli came through the door of the Brisbane house and saw this reporter holding the huge tarantula on the palm of his left hand.

Spinelli was so startled he stood there rigid, staring. Golding was even more rigid.

"Don't worry. I guarantee she won't bite," said owner Rudy Christians. "I guarantee it."

"But does the spider guarantee it?" I thought, too scared to even talk.

Christians reached over and picked up the tarantula "Henrietta," a Central American multicolored furry spider more than four inches across.

"She only eats every five or six months or so," Christians said. "She's about ready to eat now."

Henrietta is Christians' pet.

He operates a security dog rental service, and has another tarantula. "Elvira," that he rents out to a silversmithing shop near Fisherman's Wharf.

"It seems to work, that's the one thing," explained Tom Cole at the Sterling Works, 434 Bay St.

"Before we got the tarantula, we had four break-ins in three weeks. Since then, we've had none."

Elvira guards the Sterling Works show window, crawling among the silver and turquoise and hiding under the white coral.

"It's the psychological deterrent," explained Christians. "They can jump six feet."

"My first reaction was like wow, far out, but not out of the question," said Karen Czujko, co-partner in the Sterling Works.

"Things had got so bad, we were wondering whether we should get a snake, or a scorpion. We were just sitting around the kitchen table thinking up things we could possibly do, you know, getting more and more sadistic and far out. We knew we had to do something — get a watch dog or something — so I called up Rudy."

By coicidence, Rudy had Henrietta, and knew where he could get Elvira.

He had some signs printed up proclaiming: "Warning This Area is Patrolled by Tarantulas."

An hour later, this reporter was still feeling the tarantula on his palm. Like a handful of wooden matchsticks that might bite you to death.

Outstanding Educators

Four Serramonte High School teachers have been selected as Outstanding Secondary Educators of America for 1975.

They were selected on the basis of their professiona, personal and academic achievements.

Outstanding Secondary Educators of America is an annual awards program honoring distinguished men and women in the field of secondary education.

Each year the complete biography and record of achievements of each outstanding educator is presented in the awards volume, "Outstanding Secondary Educators of America."

These educators are now in competition for one of the five national Outstanding Secondary Educators of the Year Awards.

Each national winner will receive a $500 unrestricted grant and an award certificate commemorating their selection. Guidelines for selection include an educator's talents in the classroom, contributions to research, administrative abilities, civic service and professional recognition.

The Outstanding Secondary Educators for 1975 from Serramonte are: Abe Evenich of Colma; Judy Ann Borelli of San Francisco; David Moon Lew of San Francisco, and Eileen Constance Denson of Belmont.

Budget Request Tabled

A San Mateo County Transit District budget request for some $3,742,000 was tabled for further study Wednesday.

Included in the proposed budget submitted by acting general manager Sid Cantwell was $2,080,000 for purchase of new buses and another $500,000 to buy out existing carriers.

If the buses were ordered today, it would take almost a year for actual delivery, according to Cantwell.

Each bus costs some $65,000 and are needed for what was described as "east-west routes" on the Peninsula.

Once the budget requests are adopted by the Board they will be submitted to the Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC), and next forwarded to Washington, D.C. for review and funding, Cantwell explained.

Target date for submission of the request is Sept. 15.

Information Officer Seeks

Kathy Simon is a rarity in San Mateo County municipal operations.

She is a PIO — a public information officer for the City of South San Francisco. There's one for the county, but hardly any city utilizes a professional to handle outside communications.

And the 23-year-old Ms. Simon is quick to point out the position is one of disseminating honest, accurate information, not public relations in the commonly construed sense of image building.

The young woman's education and work background would indicate she knows the difference. She's a recent graduate in journalism from San Jose State and has worked in public relations and advertising, as well as being a newspaper reporter.

KATHY SIMON

Ms. Simon began work with the city Monday on a three-month, part-time experimental basis. She will be putting in anywhere from 25 to 40 hours a week, paid at the rate of $6.04 an hour.

PIO is a position she actively pursued by preparing a proposal describing how she envisioned the job and what talents and experience she could offer.

The timing was right. According to City Manager Ed Alario. He and his assistant, Mike Wilson, who had been handling public information as time allowed between his other duties, had been discussing the possibility of creating such a position for some time.

Alario checked with the council and they agreed to the temporary contractural arrangement. After evaluation, it has the possibility of becoming more permanent.

Ms. Simon's primary responsibility will be to prepare the city's quarterly newsletter. She also will act as liaison to the press and prepare press releases.

"Being a public information officer has been my goal," said Ms. Simon, as she sat at a typewriter in temporary quarters in the mayor's office.

"I thought about how I might go about doing it, and who might need the service," she said. "I like government and I have respect for the news media. I think I can make the two work together."

Why South San Francisco?

"I grew up in South San Francisco," said the young Millbrae woman who also once worked for a South San Francisco-based group of biweekly newspapers. "I know the city's problems, and I thought I could do a good job for them."

She said her intent is to "disseminate information accurately and honestly" in the city's newsletter. And she will be putting in as much time as she feels is necessary ("a lot of it will be my own time") to do the job well.

SSF PR Irks Mirri

South San Francisco Councilman Terry Mirri took a jab this week at the hiring of a municipal public information officer.

Mirri said the hiring was "unjustifiable under dollars and cents and on an ethical and moral basis."

He contended that the city should use the money paid out for this work to correct higher priority problems, such as tackling vandalism to some of the city's buildings and parks.

Mirri said it is "nothing but a public relations job" and will "possibly dilute the news," albeit unintentionally.

Mayor Richard Battaglia said it is important to consider the costs involved if a highly paid staff member had to handle the public information work load.

Battaglia said the three-month temporary contractural job is being handled by someone proficient and expert in the field of handling press relations.

Councilman Warren Steinkamp noted that the Air Pollution Control Board, of which he is a member, utilizes a five-member public information staff. "They do a job for the district," he said.

Janet Fogarty, a member of the County Transit Board, said the council might consider using the public information officer in reverse.

That is, said Mrs. Fogarty, to advise the council and staff as to what the public is thinking. "Too often government officials think people are thinking one thing, and they're not thinking that at all," she said.

"I want the public to come to me, not an intermediary," said Mirri. He also was critical of the fact the hiring was not first discussed in a public session and said this was one reason he brought the subject up since he had reservations about the hiring.

Kathy Simon was hired at $6.04 an hour to handle press relations, do the city's newsletter and other related duties after City Mgr. Ed Alario took an independent poll of the councilmen.

In an unrelated action, the council unanimously approved specifications and a call for bids for the city's newsletter and quarterly recreation guide.

Airport to Extend Medical Services

The Airports Commission has approved a one-year agreement with the San Francisco International Airport Medical Clinic to extend services to 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, Airports Director William J. Dwyer has announced.

The Airport Medical Clinic is a partnership consisting of L. A. Smookler, M.D., Samuel La Porte, M.D., William Helvey, M.D., and David J. Cahu, M.D., who currently provide medical services consisting of a single shift on a six-day-a-week basis.

The coverage will be expanded to provide the services of a medical doctor in the clinic daily 8 a.m. to 1 a.m. and on call from 1 a.m. to 8 a.m. A nurse will be in the Clinic on a 24-hour basis, seven days a week.

"The clinic handles approximately 13,500 patients a year, including some 1,100 emergency responses," Dwyer said. "In addition the Airport Fire Department responded to 525 first aid calls during the first 11 months of 1974, 360 of these occurring while the medical clinic was closed," he said.

"According to industry statistics, an additional 3,500 to 4,000 persons, including some 200 'critical' cases, can be expected to use the Airport Medical Clinic as a result of the added coverage," Dwyer said.

"The medical clinic will be responsible for the entire costs of services from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekedays and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays, and will provide equipment, materials and supplies, insurance, administration and supervision of the staff on a 24-hour basis," the director said.

Pacifica Cable Rate Hike OKd

The Pacifica City Council has okayed an agreement with Tele-Communications, Inc. (TCI) the local cable television franchisee, which will allow an immediate rate increase in exchange for a completely rebuilt system.

The rate increase, however, will remain in an escrow account until the city officials are sure all the "bugs" are out of the new system. Installation is expected to take some nine months.

Under the contract agreed to Monday and which becomes effective Sept. 1, the current primary service rate of $4.75 a month will jump automatically to $6.25 a month. Then, after the new system is installed and accepted as working adequately, the firm will receive a second rate increase up to $7.40 a month for primary service hookups.

One exception is the Senior Citizens Inn, 555 Crespi Drive, which has been excluded from a rate increase, at least until a new franchise is written. Re-writing the franchise is expected to proceed while work is progressing on upgrading the 20-channel capacity system.

TCI must begin construction within 45 days of actual signing of the new agreement. If TCI fails to meet the conditions of the contract, the monies, and interest, accruing in a Pacifica bank will be returned to the system's then-current subscribers on a pro-rata basis.

Mayor Stan Farber said at that stage the "marriage" between the city and TCI would end unceremoniously.

Farber also had included in the agreement that TCI would pick up the tab for city-hired services of consultant Joe Hale of Cable Dynamics Inc., who assisted in preparation of the contract. Hale had estimated his services to date at about $2,000. He also will assist in rewriting the franchise agreement.

Councilwoman Grace McCarthy voted against the contract, primarily, she said, because she wanted to know more about the local program origination studio and she wanted to check with other cities having installation and other difficulties with the Denver-based franchise.

J. C. Sparkman of TCI said local program origination would proceed as it has in the past, and noted that 40 cents of the monthly rate went toward local program origination operation.

Report Urges Central Dump

Local communities and private industry in San Mateo County are confronted with a variety of solid waste management problems which require prompt attention in the over-all public interest.

This was reported Thursday night in a public meeting in San Mateo to unveil the proposed solid waste management plan for the county.

The Solid Waste Advisory Committee is proposing a plan to cope with the collection and disposition of more than 2,000 tons of municipal and industrial wastes being generated daily in the county.

It is estimated by the committee that capital investments ranging from $7.2 million to $8.7 million will be required during the period of 1976-79 for facilities that are "needed now for short-term purposes."

Siren Test On Friday

Civil defense sirens and horns will be tested throughout San Mateo County at 11 a.m. Friday.

Area Civil Defense Coordinator James V. Fitzgerald explained that the test signal will consist of a one-minute steady sound, followed by a short silence, then a one-minute wavering blast.

Fitzgerald pointed out that the test, conducted four times a year, insures that the equipment will be ready in the event of a major disaster.

In a real emergency, the warning signal would be sounded for a much longer period, from 3 to 5 minutes.

People hearing this could listen to radio or television stations for information and instructions.
